

Now We Are the Body: Global Song in Local Worship

Sunday May 2, 2:00pm

Christ Church United, UCC

180 E. Merrimack Street, Lowell

(next to Saints Medical Center)

THE PURPOSE OF THE WORKSHOP

North Americans are but a small part of the body of Christ in the 21st century. Join the other members of the body of Christ to sing music from many parts of the world. We will examine the reasons for singing global song in local worship, the theology behind what happens when we do, and offer practical ways to teach and learn music from non-western traditions in ways that are respectful of the sending culture and which also engage the receiving culture in deeper musical and spiritual experiences.

THE WORKSHOP LEADER

Professor Patrick Evans, Associate Professor in the Practice of Sacred Music at Yale Divinity School, and the Artist in Residence at New York's Broadway Presbyterian Church, is committed to the reclaiming and renewal of congregational song, and he works with students and guests from varied denominational backgrounds and musical traditions. He recently traveled to Kenya where he taught and learned from musicians and pastors from that country and Uganda, Rwanda, Burundi and Sudan.

THIS WORKSHOP IS SPONSORED BY

The Andover Association, United Church of Christ
Christ Church United, UCC, in Lowell
WeWelcomeAll.org

For more information, contact Rev. Peter Lovett, 978-459-9631, revlovet@cculowell.org